One shared plan, from reassignment to execution

Persona: Fleet dispatcher coordinating route changes and delivery exceptions.

Strategy: Strip & accelerate. Focus everyday coordination; retain enterprise capabilities.

1 → 2 → 3 → 4

Reassign with clarity

ACTION → BENEFIT

Reassign in a focused operational view → Make urgent changes without administrative detours.

EXPECTED INTERNAL STATE

I know which driver and stops are affected.

PAIN POINT ADDRESSED

Administrative breadth obscures essential frontline tasks.

UXR-02, UXR-04

Deliver the update

ACTION → BENEFIT

Send the change in RouteLogic → Keep the latest instruction in one place.

EXPECTED INTERNAL STATE

I can see whether this change reached the driver.

PAIN POINT ADDRESSED

Route changes take 8-15 minutes; no change notification reaches the driver.

UXR-02; BUG-2044

Check acknowledgement

ACTION → BENEFIT

Check driver acknowledgement → Know the latest route was actually seen.

EXPECTED INTERNAL STATE

I know the driver has seen the latest instruction.

PAIN POINT ADDRESSED

Drivers can act on stale routes; WhatsApp becomes the trusted coordination channel.

UXR-02; BUG-2044

Monitor reliable status

ACTION → BENEFIT

Monitor timestamped status → Coordinate exceptions without manual reconciliation.

EXPECTED INTERNAL STATE

I can coordinate from a shared, current operating picture.

PAIN POINT ADDRESSED

Driver status can lag 20-60 minutes on the dispatcher dashboard.

UXR-09; BUG-2072

Three intended advantages over the WhatsApp workaround

01 One authoritative route-change record → Less dependence on parallel WhatsApp messages.

02 Visible receipt and driver acknowledgement → Less uncertainty about which instruction is being followed.

03 Timestamped operational status → Less manual reconciliation and a clearer basis for coordination.

Proposed future state: benefits and feelings require validation; receipt and driver acknowledgement are separate events.

Sources: supplied course sample UXR-02, UXR-04, UXR-09; BUG-2044, BUG-2072. No measured improvement is claimed.